Data security and privacy compliance

Faxes are delivered to a secure portal with notification to email instead of a file attachment

Transmissions can be encrypted in various formats to protect sensitive data

Internet-based fax allows for an audit trail of incoming/outbound transmission, viewable online or via email faxes and confirmation

Multi-level administrator and user system architecture results in access rights and username/password authentication

Online fax eliminates the archaic, publicly accessible 'fax room'—data is transmitted directly to intended recipients
